The 'AUSTIN HEALEY SPRITE is a British small 2 seater sport car designed by the driver and engineer Donald HEALEY https://fr.wikipedia.org/wiki/Donald_Healey. It was produced by Austin a subsidiary of BMC (British Motor Corporation). It was to be marketed at a low price and was equipped of the most popular engine then fitted to Austin A35 <http://www.austinmemories.com/styled-33/styled-35/index.html> and Morris Minor, and improved by the addition of twin SU carburettors.

48,897 of the first model called Sprite Mk 1 "Frogeye" (because of its frog like headlights), were produced between 1958 en 1961

Thereafter other version of the sprite are produced : Sprite Mk 2, Mk 3 et Mk 4. Those are identical to the MG Midget Mk 1, Mk 2 et Mk 3.

This version has been designed by engineers from MG and d'AUSTIN HEALEY, both subsidiaries of the BMC. The blending of the two names SPRITE AUSTIN HEALEY + MIDGET MG will drive to a common name : «SPRITGET», from «Sprite» and «Midget». <http://www.uk-us.fr/classics/spritget.htm> et <https://www.facebook.com/Spridget-Club-de-France-188945619472/?ref=ts>
